KENOSHA, Wis. (Wednesday, Feb. 18, 2015) – Kenosha librarian Linda Potter will be conducting a six-week MotherRead program with Indian Trail High School and Academy’s Parent and Child Education class beginning today.

As part of Kenosha Unified School District’s Family Education Programs, MotherRead is a program designed to help parents read to young children.

The PACE students are 15-18 years old and are either pregnant or a teen parent, and each student receives a book each week.

The program begins at 9:40 a.m. and lasts approximately one hour each Wednesday in room 1218, the PACE classroom. The last class of the program will be held on March 25, during which the teenagers will read to the infants.
